HOMES

Annual Report • 2007

We see our mission in a new light with every new dawn

2 The scope of our mission is forever evolving

In 2004, the scope of our mission evolved to include short-term rehab. We renovated the third floor of Episcopal Church Home to become our Transitional Care Center.

In 2007, plans were finalized and work began to expand and renew our Transitional Care Center.

In April 2008, Fran Bly and Marvin Plakut visit our all-new rehab gym.

Our mission is to enhance the quality of life for senior adults by providing homes and services that support each individual's physical, social and spiritual needs.

The scope of these words is forever evolving. From our founding in 1894 through 1991, they applied only to individuals who needed the long-term care provided by Episcopal Church Home. It was our only residence.

With the opening of Iris Park Commons in 1992, the scope of our mission evolved to include the needs of senior adults who were largely independent, but required supportive services.

With the opening of Seabury in 2002, the scope of our mission evolved to include the needs of senior adults who lived independently, but had limited incomes that were limiting their quality of life.

Our Transitional Care Center was opened in 2004 to help individuals regain their strength and independence following hospitalization for major health events. And in 2005, the scope of our mission evolved again. We opened Cornelia House so independent seniors could enjoy the peace of mind that comes from living close to all of the care and services they might ever need.

In 2007, we doubled our commitment to limited-income seniors. We opened Carty Heights in a new neighborhood where the need was profound. We also finalized plans and began work on an $11 million renewal that will make Episcopal Church Home a revolutionary force for positive change. Thank you for including us in the scope of your mission!

Fran Bly
Chair, Board of Trustees

Marvin J. Plakut
President and CEO

Our cover artist, Pat Muggenberg

Pat Muggenberg is a native of Saint Paul's Frogtown. She worked for many years as a social worker in Ramsey, then Hennepin County. Most of her clients were transients. "I always treated them with respect," she says, "because what happened to them could have happened to me or anybody." Amen, Pat!

Pat moved to Iris Park Commons in 2006. "I have never lived in a place where everyone gets along so well," she says. "I especially love the exercise group, Bible study and the art class." The art class at Iris Park Commons started in 2007. It is facilitated by Roseann Mammoser, whose art classes have been a perennial hit next door at Episcopal Church Home. That's where Pat's sister Ruth Boie lives, and where she created the art featured on the cover of last year's Annual Report. Thank you, Pat and Ruth, for making our world a little more beautiful!

North Wing, June 2007

Nowhere else in our organization does our mission's call to "...support each individual's physical, social and spiritual needs" require more of our board, management, staff and volunteers. The needs of the Church Home's long-term residents and short-term rehab patients can change dramatically overnight. These changes make us ask ourselves, "Are there better ways to support each individual's needs?" The answer has often been yes, but for many years our responses have been limited by the model of care for which the building was designed.

The Church Home's $11 million renewal project, planned throughout 2005-2006 and commenced in 2007, gave us the opportunity to re-imagine everything. Our board, management and staff took full advantage of that opportunity.

The most revolutionary change will be our model of care. All of the construction and renovations being done revolve around it. When work is completed in 2008, the Church Home will no longer be divided into conventional wings with nursing stations. Instead, it will the Church Home will be divided into six distinct Household Communities.

Every resident will have his or her own private room, and each Household Community will have its own kitchen and dining area (like the one pictured at right), plus its own living room with fireplace, its own activity spaces, and lounges for visiting with family and friends. Each will also look unique, and one will be dedicated to residents who require memory care. Most importantly, each Household Community will have its own staff. The same caregivers every day.

Episcopal Church Home

This will make our Household Communities the closest approximation yet of living in a private home with family caregivers. This model of care has a wonderful benefit: the physical and cognitive status of many residents improves, and they're happier because they're empowered to call the shots much as they did in their own homes.

"Our new model of care is crafted to the individual," says board chair Janice Barrett-Menzel. "It's flexible. In contrast, institutional healthcare is driven by the institution's needs. It's rigid. The changes we're making to our building and our care model reflect a dream long held by our board. We're finally in a position to keep the promises expressed in our mission more fully than ever before possible."

Episcopal Church Home board chair Janice Barrett-Menzel with administrator Mike Karel.

Another beneficiary of the Church Home's renewal project is its third-floor Transitional Care Center. The plans, finalized in 2007, called for increased capacity. 21 private rooms with private baths vs. the original 10 private and three semi-private rooms. A new rehab gym three times larger than the old one was to be added, along with a new lounge and dining area. Work was completed in mid-April 2008. Rehab patients enjoy catered meals, cable TV, their own phone and Wi-Fi for wireless Internet access from their laptop computers. "We're making it as hotel-like as we can," says Mike Karel.

Iris Park Commons Cornelia House Seabury Carty Heights

Iris Park Commons offers 59 one or two-bedroom and studio apartments with a flexible menu of supportive and assisted living services for age 55+. Most are at moderate market rates, but up to 16 units are available through County programs. There were a number of transitions in 2007 (mostly to the Church Home), but vacancies were promptly filled. Iris Park Commons has developed quite a waiting list, with new names being added weekly. Also in 2007, plans were made to create an in-house “Easy Clinic” to save residents from running all over town for routine doctor’s office visits. The clinic opened in April 2008.

Cornelia House is a collection of 47 one and two-bedroom apartments for independent adults age 62+. Ten apartments are priced to be affordable to people with limited incomes; the rest are at moderate market rates. In 2007, the resident community continued to flourish. The Cornelia House Resident Council has created a number of groups that meet regularly, and it sponsors monthly community dinners, each with a timely theme. We saw several transitions to Iris Park Commons and the Church Home. Resulting vacancies were quickly filled from the ever-growing waiting list.

July, 2007: National, regional and local HUD officials visit the Carty Heights site to learn more about its geothermal heating and air conditioning system, which reduces energy consumption by 40-60%. Carty Heights is the nation’s first geothermally heated and cooled HUD project .

Gathered in the stunning two-story lobby of Carty Heights are (L to R): Ron Brown (2007 Chair of the board that governs these four residences), Heidi Crumpler (Manager, Carty Heights), Kire Meyer-Quist (Manager, Seabury), Julie Niewald (Manager, Cornelia House), and Mark Ladwig (Manager, Iris Park Commons).

Seabury is our first HUD-subsidized residence for lower-income adults age 62+. Its 49 one-bedroom apartments and beautiful two-story fireplace lobby reflect our belief that limited income needn’t mean limited quality of life. Rent is set at 30% of each resident’s qualifying income, which must be under $27,500 for individuals or $31,400 for couples. In some cases, that figures out to rents as low as $52 per month. 2007 saw several transitions to Iris Park Commons and the Church Home. Vacancies were swiftly filled from the waiting list, and new arrivals were welcomed into Seabury’s vibrant community.

Carty Heights is our new HUD-subsidized residence for age 62+. It opened on November 1, 2007, as a full house with a waiting list. Carty Heights is located 1.4 miles East of our campus in a neighborhood where its 49 one-bedroom apartments are helping alleviate the still-critical need for affordable senior housing. The resident community reflects the ethnic diversity of the area, but as one residents puts it, “We all talk and learn about each other and do things together. It’s a wonderful place to live!” We’re off to a great start!

The Central Lutheran School Choir gave us high hopes for the future.

Three reasons to consider becoming a Volunteer:

1. You'll make someone's day.
2. You'll make your own day.
3. You needn't make a major time commitment. Even one hour will make a difference that really matters.

Volunteering can be as simple as reading the day's mail to a resident. Or playing Yahtzee. Or listening to a favorite memory. Your help is welcome at any of our residences, but the need is greatest at our Church Home.

To learn more about how you can make someone's day just by being yourself, call Jean Sandberg at 651-632-8816. Thank you!

Becketwood Cooperative

Manager Tom Johnson with Phyllis Kromer, 2007 Board President, and the new pipe organ.

Becketwood Cooperative overlooks the Mississippi from its 12 wooded acres on West River Parkway in Minneapolis. Becketwood's construction was initiated and overseen by the Episcopal Church Home Board in 1986. Episcopal Homes has provided management services from the beginning. 2007 marked our 21st year of earning our place at Becketwood's table. It also marks the fulfillment of a dream long-held by many: a real pipe organ for the chapel. David Engen built the instrument and performed works by Becketwood Members Ron Nelson and Paul Mantz at its dedication.

Our thanks to the Becketwood Board of 2007:

Phyllis Kromer, President • Dave Swanson, Vice President • John Bjorkquist, Secretary • Vera Watson, Treasurer • Margaret Anderson • Elaine Churchill • Alan Gordon • Susan McKinley • Bob Ochtrup

 Development,
Judy Alcott.

$1,000 or more on an annual basis, $5,000 or more on a cumulative basis, and those who have included Episcopal Homes in their estate plans. We are grateful for their commitment and generosity.

The first ever Episcopal Homes ART AFFAIR was held on our campus October 5, 6, and 7. We had a total of 113 pieces of art from 58 area artists, painters, potters and photographers. Many were sold, and 40% of the sale proceeds were donated by the artists to Episcopal Homes. The ART AFFAIR brought many new visitors to our campus. It will become an annual event that we can all look forward to.

Our heartfelt thanks to all. We look forward to partnering with you in 2008 as we continue this joyous journey of service to others. Thank you.

The Foundation works to raise, invest and manage funds for the organization and those we serve.

Episcopal Homes Sunday was celebrated May 6 in many area parishes, with brochures, contribution envelopes, and bulletin inserts provided to inform parishioners of the homes and services we provide.

Our annual Recognition Brunch was held on May 22 at Becketwood. We honored those who have contributed

Our first ART AFFAIR was a hit! It will return every first weekend of October. Our Big Back Yard Party, planned in 2007, debuts in 2008.

Welcome Home!
